Keep the Feeling Alive

At the end of Christmas Day, many of us feel a sense of sadness. We have experienced a time of anticipation throughout the Advent Season as we prepared for Christmas Day. Now what? I find myself wanting to extend the celebration and to continue to look for the miracles that always seem to surround this special time of year. It is possible, according to Catholic tradition it should continue. The Catholic Church honors the time from Christmas Day to January 6 as a time to keep this feeling alive. Take time to research "The twelve days of Christmas" and learn ways to extend this blessed season and to establish new traditions for your family.
